Step-by-Step Alternatives:

The Online Chat Method: Log into your SiriusXM Online Account Center and navigate to the Subscription Management section. Look for the "Chat" option. Clearly state you want to cancel, and repeatedly type "cancel" or refuse discounts if they transfer you to a retention specialist.

Third-Party Subscriptions: If you signed up through an app store, you must cancel through that provider. iPhone users can manage this in the Settings app under Subscriptions, while Android users need to cancel via the Payments & Subscriptions menu in their Google Play account. Roku users must cancel directly on Roku Account Management. You likely cannot cancel your SiriusXM subscription because you are trying through the mobile app, which doesn't support cancellations, or because your plan is billed through a third party like Apple, Google Play, or Roku rather than SiriusXM directly. Common

Reasons for Cancellation Blocks

Using the App: You cannot cancel a subscription inside the SiriusXM mobile app.

Third-Party Billing: If you signed up via Apple, Google Play, or Roku, you must cancel through those specific account portals, not the SiriusXM website.

Retention Loops: SiriusXM's online and chat systems use automated retention tactics or push you to talk to a live agent who may pitch counter-offers before processing the final cancellation.

How to Fix It

Log In Online: Go to the official SiriusXM Account Center on a computer or mobile browser, navigate to your subscriptions, and look for the cancellation or online chat option.

Check Third-Party Subscriptions: Go to your Apple ID, Google Play subscriptions, or Roku account settings if you originally paid through your phone or streaming device.

Call Support: If the online prompts loop or fail, call SiriusXM customer care directly at 📞 1-888-595-0479 OR 888-480-9019 📞 to force the cancellation over the phone.
